1,000 Question & Answer Database

Choose a round. Find the answer.

1,000 questions / 20 games / 100 rounds

A searchable question and answer reference for trivia hosts. Browse complete rounds and find each answer alongside its question.

Question IDs Q0001-Q1000. Keep this host reference private.
Use the separate Trivia Host Kit to plan and run the event.

Find the next round

This database keeps all 1,000 numbered question-and-answer pairs from the original 63Labs trivia collection. It is a reference companion: use the short Trivia Host Kit for operating instructions, scripts, scoring and forms.

Find by game or category

The index on pages 3-4 shows every game and its five categories. Each game occupies five pages, one ten-question round per page. Click an index row or use the PDF bookmarks to jump to the round you need.

Search by a word or a question ID

Use your PDF reader's search to find a category, answer, keyword or exact ID such as Q0427. Every item keeps its original ID from Q0001 through Q1000. Answers sit directly below their questions, including accepted alternatives where supplied.

Keep the format clear

The original twenty game sets each contain five rounds and 50 questions. The short host guide uses four-round games. To use this bank with that schedule, choose four rounds and score out of 40; allow extra time and announce a maximum of 50 if using all five rounds.

Plan for repeat guests

Log the question IDs or rounds you use. The short host guide draws from this same collection, so those questions overlap. Keep this answer-bearing reference out of guest view.

About this reference edition

All 1,000 IDs and answer mappings were checked against the original collection. Factual wording clarifications and acceptable answer variants have been added. Review the chosen round before hosting.

> The original tiebreakers, operating guide and blank forms are separate from the 1,000 numbered questions. This reference does not repeat those pages. Use the short host kit for them.
